

Terms and Conditions

Terms and conditions of use of the Eulama S.r.l. web site www.Eulama.com

The web site www.Eulama.com, property of Eulama S.r.l., offers an online information service provided by Eulama S.r.l. (hereinafter "Eulama"). Use of the site is subject to acceptance of the terms and conditions of use outlined below. If you do not accept these conditions you are requested not to make use of the site.

Copyright

The content of the web site www.Eulama.com, including texts, documents, trademarks, logos, images, design, their layout and adaptations are protected by intellectual property rights and norms protecting the use of trademarks (Law 22 April 1941 n°. 633 and subsequent modifications, Regio Decreto n°. 929 of 21 June 1942 and subsequent modifications) and are protected by copyright. The Eulama institutional web site may also contain images, documents, logos and trademarks that are the property of third parties who have expressly given Eulama permission to use such material on the web site www.Eulama.com, also such third party material is covered norms governing intellectual property rights and the protection of trademarks and protected by copyright. Apart from strictly personal use, it is not permitted to copy, alter, distribute, publish or in any other way to use the content of the web site www.Eulama.com institutional web site without prior written consent from Eulama.

Limits of responsibility

The information contained on the web site www.Eulama.com is provided in good faith by Eulama and is periodically updated and checked. Under no circumstances can Eulama be held accountable for direct or indirect damage caused by the use of the information contained on the site or the content of the site itself. Consequently, persons making decisions based on the information contained on the site are wholly responsible for their actions.

Links

Eulama is not responsible for the content of any other site that may be accessed from the web site www.Eulama.com or from which the web site www.Eulama.com may be accessed. Connecting to sites from the Eulama institutional web site is made at the users own risk and users should ensure that they have taken adequate precautions against viruses or other such elements. Eulama has absolutely no control over the content of such sites and as a third party has no responsibility for the content, also advertising material, contained on such sites, or for products or services offered by them. Such products or services are in no way sponsored, shared or supported by Eulama.

Messages and information sent through the site

Users take full responsibility for the content of messages sent, accepting full responsibility and excluding Eulama - as well as the companies and/or persons related or associated, its representatives, employees or any partners - from any eventual claim for damages or similar, excluding Eulama from charges relating to actions taken by third parties against Eulama, the companies or persons indicated above, for damages deriving from the actions of users or persons authorised by the user to access the site www.Eulama.com. Any eventual material or information supplied by any user through the site cannot be considered of a confidential or reserved nature. Consequently, Eulama reserves the right to use freely any such information in any way it deems appropriate. Anyone sending material and/or information guarantees that such material is publishable and accepts to exclude Eulama from any liabilities relating to such material and information.

Legitimate use

Users agree to use the web site www.Eulama.com and its services exclusively for legitimate purposes and, in any case, without affecting the rights of any third party and paying special attention to norms concerning the protection of data, laws governing the protection of intellectual property, the protection of personal details, and current legislation concerning computer crime and norms governing telecommunications.

Cookies

A "cookie" is a small quantity of data, often contained in a unique and anonymous identification code that is sent to users' browsers by a web server and which are subsequently memorised on the users hard disk. The cookie can be read and recognised only by the web site that sent it on subsequent visits. Cookies may be found in a number of areas of the web site www.Eulama.com and are used exclusively for technical purposes and/or to trace users use of the site. If a user prefers not to receive cookies, browsers may be set to warn of the presence of cookies, allowing the user to decide whether to accept the cookie or not. It is also possible to automatically reject all cookies by activating this option on the browser.

Privacy

A description of the management of the web site www.Eulama.com with regard to the treatment of personal details of users can be found on a special page entitled Privacy.

Applicable laws

The conditions contained in these notes are regulated by Italian legislation.